This protocol applies to all matches, official events, ceremonies, training sessions, organised travel and activities linked to the tournament.

2. GUIDING PRINCIPLES

AC CUP is based on the following principles:

3. Swift action

Incidents must be dealt with immediately to prevent them from escalating.

4. Proportionality

The organisation may immediately expel from the tournament any player, member of a coaching staff, team delegate, family member, companion or spectator who engages in this type of behaviour, even if it is a first offence, when the seriousness of the facts justifies it.

The protection of minors will prevail over any sporting or competitive consideration.

The decision must be taken as quickly as possible and, preferably, before the next match is played.

⚠️ Note: Identification of the person responsible

When there are reasonable indications that discriminatory or violent behaviour has been committed by a player taking part in AC CUP and it is not possible to reliably determine the specific identity of the offender, the organisation will require the club involved to cooperate in identifying the person responsible.

If, after the actions taken, it is not possible to identify the player responsible, or the club does not cooperate sufficiently in the identification, the Disciplinary Committee may find the team or the participating club responsible and apply the disciplinary measures set out in Section 12 (Sanctions for Clubs).

For assessment purposes, the Committee will take into account the seriousness of the facts, the club's cooperative attitude, any previous record and the evidence available.

This measure is subsidiary and will apply especially in cases where the failure to identify the person responsible could prevent the proper protection of victims or compromise the principles of respect, equality and coexistence that inspire AC CUP.

10. SANCTIONS FOR PLAYERS

Regardless of the sanctions set out above:

Any racist, xenophobic, sexist, homophobic, transphobic, discriminatory or violent behaviour may lead to immediate expulsion from the tournament, even if it is a first offence, when the organisation considers that the seriousness of the facts, the harm caused to the victim, the impact on the competition or the risk of repetition justify it.

The following will be considered especially serious:

- Discriminatory insults directed at a specific person.
- Public racist or discriminatory expressions.
- Offensive gestures relating to race, origin, sex, religion or sexual orientation.
- Threats.
- Physical assault.
- Collective participation in discriminatory behaviour.
